

Patent

The IP Group asserts claims of patent infringement on behalf of our clients, and defends clients against claims of patent infringement. Our registered patent attorneys team with litigators, trial and appellate attorneys to prepare, litigate and appeal infringement actions. Patent infringement litigation is a particularly complex and expensive type of litigation. Any company operating in the technology and innovation economy should prepare for patent litigation. We assist our clients to understand the patent landscape and to design products and services around problematic patent claims, to buy or license patents, and to establish a strong position to defend against allegations of patent infringement. At the same time, we help our clients to assert their own patent rights through licensing negotiations and patent infringement lawsuits
