

Local Government Lobbying

Our Government, Environmental & Land (GEL) Practice Group provides a full range of administrative, regulatory and land use representation before and on behalf of local government elected and appointed bodies. The GEL Practice Group and the Administrative and Legislative Advocacy Practice Group work together closely to handle a wide variety of local administrative and legislative issues. Our lawyers are very experienced in handling cases before the Division of Administrative Hearings and legislative bodies. Much of the representation relates to approval of development permits or contracts, challenges or defense of proposed agency actions or regulations, bid protests or defense, and economic development programs. We have found that the combination of knowledgeable experienced lobbyists and litigators with astute negotiators is very effective in meeting our clients' diverse needs.
