

Health Care Business

With the continued promulgation of new laws and regulations, the aging of the domestic population, advances in medical and biological technology, and budgetary pressures affecting governmental entities, healthcare has become one of the most dynamic and challenging industries in the country. Fowler White Boggs's Health Care Business team has a long and successful history of helping its clients navigate the ever-changing regulatory scheme in which healthcare providers operate.

Our Health Care Business team is comprised of attorneys who specialize in the corporate, tax, finance, securities, real estate, and employee benefits issues that impact healthcare providers. We represent individuals, businesses, and corporations that operate in the expansive breadth of the industry – from physicians, hospitals, nursing homes, and physician-hospital joint ventures to pharmaceutical and biotechnology concerns that produce leading-edge drugs and medical equipment.

Our firm has been recognized by both Best Lawyers in America and Chambers USA as one of the leading healthcare practices in the State of Florida, and we have lawyers who practice in the areas of healthcare business, regulation, and litigation throughout all of our offices.
