

International Taxation

The International Taxation team concentrates on international, corporate and private client matters, working closely with the Firm's Business Transactions, Taxation and Corporate Law Practice Group and the Estates and Trusts Practice Group. This team assists foreign investors structuring inbound U.S. business ventures, high net worth foreign families migrating to or investing in the U.S., U.S. companies engaging in cross-border transactions or exporting products or services, and U.S. business executives planning extended tours of duty overseas. These lawyers also handle international tax controversies, Voluntary Disclosure and FBAR reporting, intercompany pricing issues, the usage of tax treaties, expatriation, sourcing of income, and cross border transfers of property. Today, most business transactions have some element of international tax, trade or customs requirements.
