

Energy

Energy is emerging as one of the most critical components of our economy and one that will be driving change to both business and to our personal lives. Our Energy Industry Team assists clients in navigating the complex regulatory environment in which this industry segment operates. We advise clients on transactional matters, regulatory and legislative issues, and, in unfortunate circumstances that require litigation.

We also assist clients in developing, operating, financing, selling, or acquiring energy assets and to meet their own energy needs. We have provided legislative advocacy services on behalf of our energy clients and assisted them in efforts to acquire financing and funding through federal, state and local sources.
