

Insurance

Fowler White Boggs Banker has been ranked as a leading Florida law firm for Insurance Practice by Chambers USA in consecutive years beginning in 2004. Our Insurance practice covers a number of segments of the industry including business, regulatory, and litigation. We offer a monthly enewsletter that offers industry news as well as case reporting and analysis and notices of upcoming seminars on insurance issues. Visit our "What's News" section to sign up for this enews service.

Insurance Coverage and First Party

The Insurance Coverage Litigation Group focuses its practice on providing advice to clients concerning the rights and obligations of parties to an insurance contract. We have extensive experience in the interpretation of insurance contracts, their application to certain sets of facts as well as the implied obligations that arise from the insurance contract.

The Insurance Coverage Litigation Group handles all kinds of insurance, whether it be a simple health insurance matter or complex commercial reinsurance transaction. Whether the claim is one for benefits under a life, health, property or liability-type policy, we have lawyers who devote their practice to analyzing and understanding the rights and obligations of insureds and insurance companies under the contract and provide advice concerning those claims that may or may not be covered. Contact: Russ Buhite

Insurance Defense

Fowler White Boggs Banker has been representing individuals, insurance companies, corporations, governmental and self-insured entities in matters involving personal injury and property damage litigation for more than 60 years.

Members of the Firm's Litigation Department have vast experience in trial and appellate work involving personal injury, insurance defense, property damage litigation, product liability, wrongful death, automobile and premises liability issues. The General Trial Group also handles every aspect of insurance coverage issues and litigation, as well as product liability/defective product issues, nursing home litigation, first amendment issues, libel and slander matters and civil rights litigation. Since its inception, Fowler White Boggs Banker's trial lawyers have represented litigants in federal and state courts and would welcome the opportunity to discuss their experiences and qualifications. Contact: Rich Bowers

Insurance Regulatory and Litigation

Fowler White Boggs Banker addresses the needs of a broad spectrum of global and domestic financial service businesses including insurance and reinsurance companies (with respect to life/annuities, health, title and captive insurers), investment companies, offshore funds, producers (including insurance agents, third party administrators, managing general agents and broker/dealers), investment advisers, pension fund administrators, banks and other financial services companies, and insurance regulators. We offer regulatory advice, provide guidance on product development and give counsel on all aspects of insurance company legal challenges.
